Purpose: The purpose of this policy is to define the basic guidelines for persons who use Texas Woman's University (TWU) Libraries Interlibrary Loan (ILL) services with regard to borrowing materials from and lending materials to other libraries. It also addresses library document delivery services, returns, registration, fees, and copyright restrictions (Title 17, United State Code).

Definitions:

Interlibrary – transactions between libraries on behalf of library users

Borrow – requesting the use of library materials/resources from other libraries

Lend – lending library materials/resources to other libraries

ILLiad – online system used for Interlibrary loan services

Document Delivery – delivery of materials/resources through electronic means

Policy:

1. Interlibrary Loan (ILL) offers TWU students, faculty, and staff the privilege of borrowing materials and resources, not owned by the TWU Libraries, from other libraries. Non-TWU users must use ILL through their own public, academic, school, or special libraries.

2. The library’s ILLiad online system is used to place requests, track delivery status, verify due dates, receive electronic documents, and communicate with the TWU Libraries Interlibrary Loan staff. Each user creates their own account using their official TWU name, ID number, and email address.

3. ILL materials are obtained, whenever possible, at no cost to the users.

4. TWU Libraries provide TWU faculty, students, and staff with free electronic document delivery of journal articles from its print journal and microform collections. Delivery of digital resources not owned by TWU Libraries is governed by licensing agreements.

5. Borrowers have privileges to check out as many materials as needed (per TWU checkout guidelines) for a specified period of time, based upon the lending library’s guidelines.

6. Items from other TWU Libraries may be placed on hold through individual online library accounts (not ILLiad) for delivery.

7. Fines and fees for late returns of physical items will be charged to all ILL users according to TWU library rates. See https://twu.edu/library/services/circulation-services/blocks-fines-and-fees/.

8. Electronically-delivered ILL materials do not need to be returned.

9. Fines and fees for lost or damaged ILL physical materials is determined by the lending library and may include late assessment fees. All ILL users are charged for lost or damaged materials.
10. All physical ILL materials are covered with a band that indicates details of the transaction between the libraries and includes item due dates. These bands are not to be removed by users.

11. Most ILL physical items are non-renewable. Contact ILL staff at ill@twu.edu if consideration for an exception is needed.

12. Interlibrary loan physical materials may be returned at any of the Information Desks at the three campus libraries. They should not be returned to the book drops.

13. Certain types of materials are not available via ILL such as rare materials and other fragile or bulky items. For a complete listing, see https://ill.twu.edu/illiad/logon.html.

14. The TWU Libraries loan materials to domestic libraries, including U.S. territories.

15. Libraries wishing to borrow materials from the TWU Libraries’ collections must submit requests via the OCLC system, DOCLINE system (from National Library of Medicine), email, or U.S. mail.

16. Specific lending guidelines can be found at: https://twu.edu/library/services/interlibrary-loan/lending-to-other-libraries/.

17. The TWU Libraries follow all copyright laws of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) regarding the use of photocopies for copyrighted materials. As such, the libraries reserve the right to refuse a copying request if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the request would involve a violation of copyright law.

18. The TWU Libraries reserve the right to change its Interlibrary Loan guidelines at any time.
