Final Examination Guidelines

Faculty are reminded of state law requiring 37.5 hours of instruction (excluding final exams) for courses in a shortened format, and the class schedule will have to accommodate this requirement.

Evening, weekend, or other block classes final exams will begin at the usual class time during exam week.

To reserve classrooms for final exams for any courses not represented in the above listing, internet courses, or televideo courses, faculty must contact University Scheduling several weeks in advance of final exams.

Final examination dates cannot be changed. As stated in the TWU Faculty Handbook, students should check the examination schedule when they register for a class to determine when their exams end. The only exceptions to this rule are made when a student has three examinations on one day, presents proof of personal illness, or cites a family emergency that can be verified. In such cases, the student may petition the department chair or dean for examination change(s).

Instructors are not free to dismiss a class or part of a class from the final examination period. Some classes (such as clinical, individual study, or practicum class) may not have a cumulative final examination, but in all cases the instructor should be aware that the period assigned for the final examination is included in calculating the time required for the class.
