

Contributors

Savannah Brackett (Jews in Thirteenth Century England) is an undergraduate History major at Texas Woman's University and a member of the Eta Nu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta.

Brandi Gray-Blake (They Went as Men) is an undergraduate History major at Texas Woman's University.

Morgan Jones (The Support Networks of Mormon Women in the Nineteenth-Century West) is an undergraduate History major at Texas Woman's University.

Cynthia Lewis (Roads to Destruction: Postwar Urban Redevelopment and North Dallas Freedman's Town) is a MA candidate in History at Texas Woman's University and a member of the Eta Nu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta. A version of this paper was presented at the 2019 North Central Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Abilene, Texas where it received a "Best Paper" prize.

Kasie Moffett (Liberal Without a Cause: Understandings of Kennedy's Historic Purpose) is a MA candidate in History at Texas Woman's University and a member of the Eta Nu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta.

Daesia Nisbett (Review of The Hidden History of the JFK Assassination) is a first year student at Texas Woman's University

Ashley Park (Psychedelic Drugs and the Fine Arts in the 1960's and 70's) is a first year student at Texas Woman's University.

Melissa Queen (Elva Queen: A Genealogical Study of Homesteading Women) is a MA candidate in History at Texas Woman's University and a member of the Eta Nu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta.

Lidia Rubio (Popular Reactions to Upton Sinclair's The Jungle) is a first year student at Texas Woman's University

Saul Ruvalcaba (Origins of Batman's Joker) is a first year student at Texas Woman's University

Joy Siler (Jacobean Masque Theater and Shakespeare's The Tempest: The Foil of the Anti-Masque) is an undergraduate History major at Texas Woman's University and a member of the Eta Nu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta. A version of this paper was presented at the 2019 North Central Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Abilene, Texas

Philip Smith (Seeing Red: A Historiographical Study of the American Communist Movement During the Interwar Period) is a MA candidate in History at Texas Woman's University.

Hunter Vermeer (Propriety Meets Necessity: Female Nursing in the Civil War) is an undergraduate History major at Texas Woman's University. A version of this paper was presented at the 2019 North Central Texas Regional Phi Alpha Theta History Conference in Abilene, Texas