February

- Date: Wednesday, February 12, 2025
- Topic: Introducing the Center for Research Design & Analysis (CRDA)
- Presenter: Dr. Paul Yeatts, Director, Center for Research Design and Analysis
- Format: Presentation with Q&A: Discover how TWU's Center for Research Design and Analysis (CRDA) can support your research needs. This session covers a CRDA services overview; basics of survey research, power analysis, and sampling; and examples of data analysis and other essential topics. Open to both undergraduate and graduate students, this session includes a Q&A to address your research questions.

April

- Date: Wednesday, April 9, 2025
- Topic: Imposter Syndrome/Phenomenon and How it Can Impact your Research
- Presenter: TWU Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) Personnel
- Format: Presentation with Q&A: Join us for an insightful presentation addressing Imposter Syndrome and its potential impact on your research journey. Through this interactive session, you will 1) gain a deeper understanding of imposter syndrome and its effects on academic and professional growth, 2) learn strategies to identify and manage feelings of self-doubt and inadequacy, and 3) participate in a guided reflection activity designed to build confidence and resilience in your research endeavors. This session is open to both undergraduate and graduate students and includes a Q&A segment for personalized discussion and support.
